Dear Vernon,

I hope this letter finds you well.

I trust your new exhibit is coming along well and all will be ready in time for your big gala. I regret I cannot attend personally, but the children and my work take all my time.

James and Melanie are doing well all things considered. Miss Christy has moved in with us, and the twins seemed to be largely ignorant of the horrors that transpired in Luxor.

Speaking of the twins — I've enclosed a recent drawing of theirs. I recalled that you found their drawings curious when you visited so I thought I'd send you a recent drawing.

James and Melanie collaborated on this one. I'm thankful they have returned to normal play.

I wish you luck on your grand opening and I hope the gala is a smashing success. Please do write when you find the time.

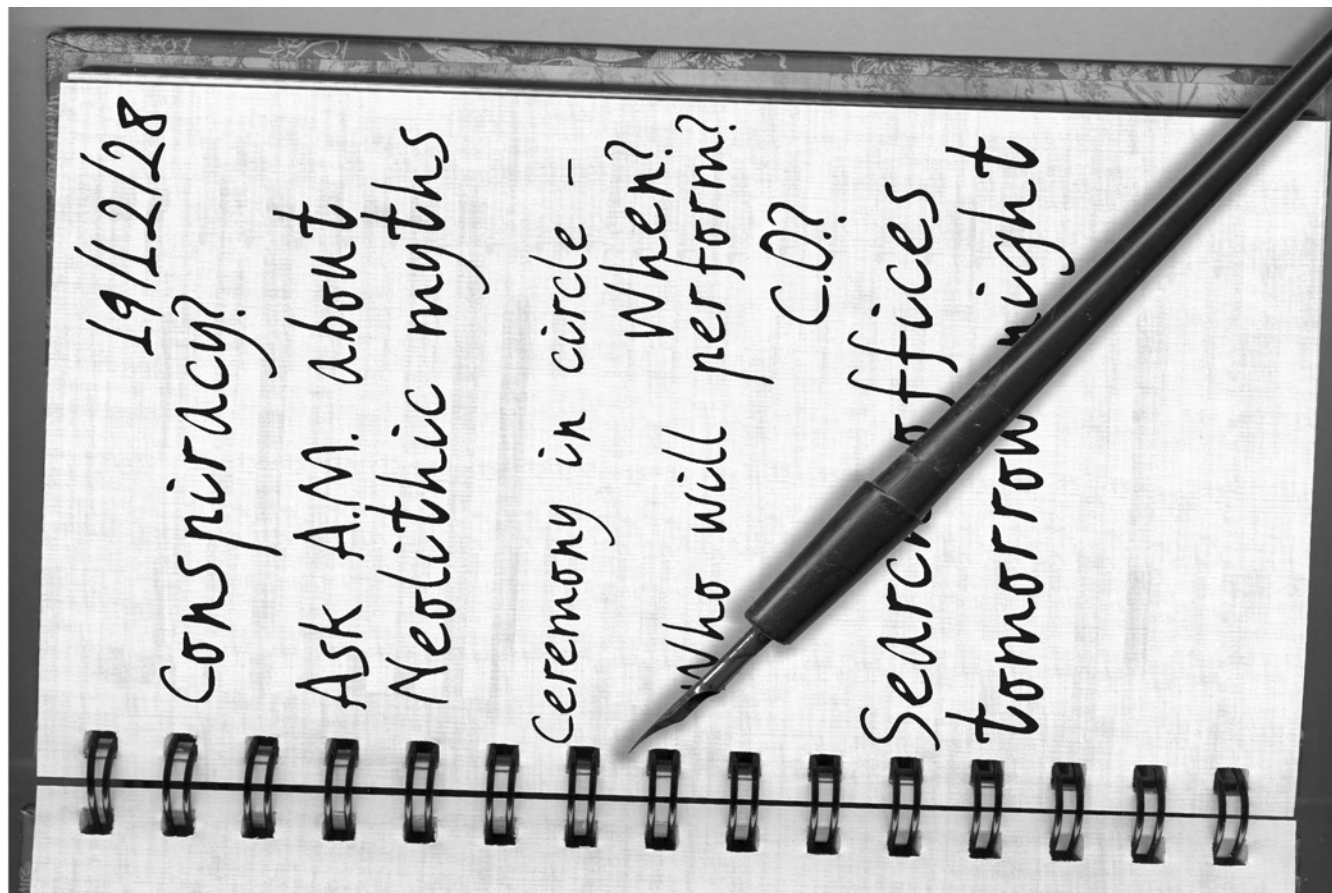

Yours very truly,
Lily
