

XCRAWL ERRATA: THE NAE PANTHEON

- Apollo– This beloved patron of the arts, music, and poetry has become the unofficial patron of Xcrawl. Almost all DJ's invoke Apollo's blessing before an Xcrawl match.
- Bacchus– Clerics of this minor deity are often maligned for their casual, celebratory approach to religion. Bacchus has few clerics, but heavy drinkers often pour an extra glass in his honor.
- Ceres– Ceres is the goddess of fertility and the harvest, and the patron of mothers and midwives. Ceres is a minor deity, but is invoked at all births and weddings.
- The Charities– Many wizards and sorcerers invoke The Charities, praying for guidance and perseverance in their studies. The Charities are minor deities, and are looked down upon somewhat as unconventional and suspicious.
- Cupid– The patron saint of romantic love, Cupid is the lonely hearts deity, and citizens who find themselves amorously stung make time to visit his temple and make an offering.
- Diana– Goddess of hunting and patron of the wilderness, Diana's worshippers supplicate on nights of the full moon. There is only one major temple dedicated to Diana, located in Vancouver.
- Discordia– While Discordia's place in the affairs of the gods is begrudgingly accepted by clerics, she is nigh universally hated as the creator of human strife. Worshippers of Discordia must do so in secret; the favored of Discordia are instantly suspect for all manner of foul and evil deeds, often rightly so.
- Faunis– This minor god is invoked by druids, farmers, and shepherds. Faunis has only minor temples in the NAE; his major temple is in Sydney, in the Kingdom of Australia.
- Fortuna– The patron of gamblers, neer'do-wells, and scoundrels. There are few clerics of Fortuna, but she is invoked by all those needing divine favor.
- Furaie– Furaie is the official patron of the NAE's police forces. Her major temple is in Pittsburgh.
- Horae– Horae represents the seasons, and her aspect changes along with the turn of the year. Many farmers honor Horae with sacrifices of flowers and wine during the year's equinoxes.
- Juno– Mighty Juno is the patron of the nobility, especially noble women. Every major city has at least one temple dedicated to this goddess of home and authority.
- Jupiter– It is considered an insult for commoners or the lowborn to choose august Jupiter as their patron. He is the patron deity of the NAE, and the personal patron of Emperor Ronald I.
- Mars– Modern depictions of Mars, the god of War, often place him in a tank, carrying a celestial machine gun. The worshippers of Mars haven't changed much over the ages: soldiers, commanders, and warriors all pay him homage.
- Mercury– The fleet footed messenger of the gods is the patron of the NAE's postal service. He is also worshiped by doctors and counselors; he is also the patron deity of the Thieves Guild.
- Morae– Morae is the oft-ignored patron of science and discovery. A minor power, she is often invoked at university functions.
- Minerva– Minerva is the goddess of wisdom and battle. She is favored by military commanders and the heads of corporations, as well as political powers and doctors. Her largest temple is in San Francisco.
- Pluto– Pluto is the feared guardian of the dead. Pluto is often invoked by those in mourning, who ask that their loved ones be well looked after in the Underworld.
- Sol– This minor deity is represented by a flaming chariot. There is only one temple to Sol in the NAE, in Flagstaff.
- Trivia– The patron of intellectuals and leaders, Trivia promotes learning and good decisions. The lost and indecisive will often pray tribute to Trivia for a blessing of insight.
- Venus– Beautiful Venus is called upon by lovers in strife and unwed maidens. Venus is an extremely popular minor deity, who is often invoked to heal broken hearts.
- Vesta– The patron of commoners and the embodiment of the strong family, Vesta is beloved amongst the families of the NAE. Most homes keep a sacred broom as a symbol of Vesta's blessing.
- Vulcan– In modern times, Vulcan is the god of industry and machines, as well as the forge and fire. The very few dwarves who respect the Olympians choose Vulcan as their patron.
